New FAQs section added to IVSONline

The IVSC is pleased to announce a further enhancement to IVSONline which now includes answers, considered by the Standards Board, to questions about the standards and their application.

The IVSC Technical Director, Chris Thorne, explains:

"Since the standards were substantially revised in 2011 we have been building a collection of the questions that have been most frequently encountered, either in writing to the Board or at seminars and conferences. The Board recognises that these questions and answers will be of interest to many practitioners and valuation users and, can also help in ensuring the consistent application of the standards."

The initial list of frequently asked questions covers a range of topics from when the standards apply to questions about appropriate assumptions, marketing periods and forced sales. The intention is to extend the list on a periodic basis.

The FAQs are only available as part of the IVSONline product, which also provides subscribers with access to all the International Valuation Standards and all the approved Technical Information Papers as soon as they are published.

If you are not a subscriber, an individual subscription costs GBP 75 per annum, with generous discounts for multiple users making this the most cost effective way for professional organisations, firms and educational establishments to ensure that their members have instant access to the IVSS and all relevant supporting information.

New Technical Manager at IVSC

The IVSC is pleased to announce the appointment of Sean Thomson as Technical Manager in our London office.

Sean was previously with investment banking and capital markets specialist Dealogic, where he focussed on fixed-income derivatives.

He has previous experience of the financial markets, working for both Bloomberg and Goetzpartners. Sean's skills and experience will be particularly relevant in progressing our projects to produce guidance on the valuation of financial instruments.
